Fiji's constitutional stand-off: consequences for inter-ethnic relations

Wednesday 24 April 2013, 5– 7pm London School of Economics, New Academic Building, Room 2.08¹

Minority Rights Group International, Citizens' Constitutional Forum and Conciliation Resources invite you to an event on inter-ethnic relations in Fiji.

The seminar will bring together policymakers, academics and representatives of non-governmental organisations with a special interest in Fiji. The findings of new report *Fiji: the Challenges and Opportunities of Diversity*² – based on field research into ethnic relations and anti-discrimination measures in Fiji – will be presented at the event.

The report highlights a history of inequality and strained ethnic relations among Fiji's ethnic groups. It also addresses recent issues surrounding the constitutional reform process.

Speakers:

Rev. Akuila Yabaki, Citizens' Constitutional Forum

Andy Carl, Conciliation Resources

Chris Chapman, Minority Rights Group International

RSVP is requested by Tuesday 23 April to Giulia di Mattia (giulia.dimattia@mrgmail.org, +44 20 7422 4218), but you may simply turn up on the day. We look forward to seeing you there.

This seminar will be held with the financial assistance of the European Union. The contents discussed at this seminar are sole responsibility of MRG, CCF and CR and can under no circumstances be regarded as reflecting the position of the European Union.
